the Marshals Heard the Moonshiners' Yell and Straightway Departed.

A Nashville special says: Deputy Mar-A Nashville special says: Deputy Marshals Spurrier, Henderson, Young, and Graves have returned from a raid on the moonshiners of the Pea-Ridge country, in the northern part of this State. The main object of the trip was the capture of the l'aylor boys, who have so long defied the revenue officers. By the time the marshals had arrived within live miles of the kiding-places of the Taylors some friends of the mea who were wanted discovered the raiders, and in a few minutes a loud halloo was heard from an adjoining hillhalloo was heard from an adjoining hilltop. The cry was taken up and echoed from bill to hill, and in a few minutes the Taylors and all other moonshiners knew that the raiders were out. To tarry in the vicinity after the moon-shiners' signal was heard meant death. The marshals turned their attention to the mountain-spurs on the headwa-ters of the Obed river and succeeded in capturing and destroying one still. The capturing and destroying one still. The still had been heard of for several years, but, being very small, it had always been spirited away on the approach of revenue men. Deputy-Marshals Graves and Young succeeded in capturing one of the Marlows on Martin's creek. Some time ago a still on the Marlow place was destroyed, and Mr. Spurrier went to a house to arrest the owner. Before he reached the building he was lighted and found himself ing he was halted and found himself ex afrented with a double-barrelled shotun. He was given his choice between mmediate departure or death, and he
